

Solid Waste Management Business Delegation

Sept 27 - 1 Oct, 2016

Solid Waste Management - Growth market with potential

India is one of the most populated countries in the world. As one of the rapidly developing countries it is also the source of a humongous amount of waste per annum, be it the municipal solid waste, hazardous waste, bio-medical waste or e-waste. Segregation at source, collection, transportation, treatment and scientific disposal of waste is largely insufficient leading to degradation of environment and poor quality of life.

Indus media together with partners such as (NSWAI) National Solid Waste Association of India and IFAT India are organising the second Business Delegation to IFAT India with the aims of providing German medium sized companies a substantial overview of the solid waste management market, business opportunities and incentive programs in India.

We invite German companies to join our 2nd business delegation to India to

- Understand the Indian Solid Waste Management sector, meet the stakeholders that matter for your business
- Promote industry cooperation, experience sharing, business partnerships
- Share knowledge, technology transfer in recycling and environment efficiency

Benefits

- Detailed information of the target market, access to expert knowledge and valuable market information
- Information workshop during IFAT India, with local experts, referents, and multiplication
- Visits to Solid Waste Management sites in Mumbai
- Networking events for business contacts and with Government agencies
